THE BIG FAVOR

"Help, Chopper, help!" Yakky Doodle cried, racing toward Chopper's doghouse. "Fibber is after me!"

The fox, close behind Yakky, reached out with his long arm, just then, and caught Yakky's tailfeathers.

"Chopper! Chopper!" Yakky screamed. "The fox has got me! Help!"

"Don't worry, little feller," answered Chopper, hurrying to Yakky's rescue. "He won't have you for long." As he raised his fist, Fibber quickly let Yakky go.

"Heh, heh, I was only playing with him," grinned Fibber, backing away.

"Well, go play with someone your own size," Chopper growled.

"Oh, Chopper," sighed Yakky gratefully. "You saved my life, for sure!"

"Aw, it was nothing," smiled Chopper. "I guess it's safe for you to go home now."

"I'm not going home. I'm staying right here," Yakky announced.

"Here?" asked Chopper, surprised.

"Uh-huh," answered Yakky. "You've saved my life lots of times, and I have never done anything to help you. So now I'm going to do the b-i-g-g-e-s-t favor ever for you!" Looking around, he asked, "What would you like me to do?"

"Er — uh —" began Chopper.

"I know," Yakky went on, before Chopper could answer, "I'm going to get you something real good to eat."

"Oh, that'll be nice," nodded Chopper.

As Yakky Doodle set off, Chopper chuckled, "Now ain't he cute?"

A few moments later, Yakky was back, carrying a big juicy bone.

"Here you are, Chopper," Yakky called. "I hope you'll like it!"

"Oh, I do, I do," murmured Chopper, chomping down on the bone. "It's yummy," and he closed his eyes in delight.

As Chopper opened his mouth for another bite, an angry voice growled, "Give me back my bone!" and a big dog grabbed the bone away! "Thief!" he shouted, bopping Chopper on the head and stalking away.

"Oh, Chopper, I'm so sorry," said Yakky. "I found the bone and no one was around, so I thought it was all right to take it."

"Never mind, little feller," said Chopper, holding his aching head. "You didn't know it belonged to someone else."

"Well, I'll make it up to you," said Yakky. "Right now, you'd better lie down. Come on, I'll fix your bed," and Yakky pushed and patted Chopper's mattress.

"Good idea," murmured Chopper. Then, "Oooh," he groaned, as he stretched out. His once-comfy straw mattress was now a bed of lumps and bumps!

As Chopper was falling off to sleep, Yakky said, patting him, "Now you think of a great big favor I can do for you."

"Sure, sure," answered Chopper.

A few moments later, Yakky whispered, "Did you think of anything, Chopper?"

"M-m-m . . . no, no," Chopper murmured.

Soon after, as Chopper stirred in his sleep, Yakky asked, "What do you want, Chopper? Is it a big favor?"

"No," sighed Chopper, "I was dreaming."

"Oh," said Yakky. "Well, then, I think I'll take a little nap, too."

"That's it, little feller," Chopper said softly, as Yakky dozed off. "The biggest favor you can do for me right now is to take a nice long nap!" And Chopper happily settled down to a peaceful sleep.
